CAPE GIRARDEAU, MO. – Old Town Cape is partnering with Missouri Main Street Connection to sell 2014 Boys on the Block calendars that feature Main Street communities from across the state of Missouri for $10 each.

In March 2013, Old Town Cape along with the other Main Street communities in Missouri submitted two photographs featuring historic buildings in the community's downtown district as a backdrop for local male personalities. Old Town Cape featured the Southeast Missourian building, 301 Broadway, in one photograph with Joseph Hann, a Cape Girardeau police officer, and Jamie Hann, a Cape Girardeau fire fighter, in front of it. The second photograph featured the Julius Vasterling building that houses Merci, 637 Broadway, with four fathers and their sons: Charles and Warren McGinty, Trent and Clark Summers, Joey and Brady Keys, and Matt Davis and Payton Beussink in front of it.

During the Missouri Main Street conference in July 2013, the attendees of the conference were asked to vote on their favorite photographs and the twelve photographs that received the highest number of votes were arranged into a black and white Boys on the Block calendar. Both of the photographs that Old Town Cape submitted were among the top twelve and are included in the calendar.

Calendars can be purchased at Merci or the Old Town Cape office, 418 Broadway, and all proceeds benefit downtown revitalization. For more information, please contact Old Town Cape at (573)334-8085.
